Welcome International Wolf Center to the explore.org Family!

Ely, Minnesota— In collaboration with the International Wolf Center, explore.org is excited to bring two new live-streaming cameras online revealing a window into the daily lives of a pack of four ambassador wolves: Axel, Grayson, Denali, and Bolz. We couldn't be more thrilled to work with the International Wolf Center to connect viewers to these majestic and sometimes misunderstood canines and help educate about their natural behaviors. Along with incredible close-ups of the wolves, the cameras also capture live sound that enhances the experience of the viewer by making it possible to hear the wolves howl. Mornings and evenings are typically when the wolves are most active: 6-9 am and 5-8 pm CT.

Charles Annenberg Weingarten, founder of explore.org:

[The new wolf camera] is one of a kind. It can't be more sacred and I'm so excited to be a part of the wolf pack. Welcome wolves to the explore.org family!

The International Wolf Center advances the survival of wolf populations by teaching about wolves, their relationship to wild lands and the human role in their future.

Grant Spickelmier, Executive Director of the International Wolf Center:

It's incredibly hard to observe wild wolves. Cameras like these make it possible for anyone, anywhere, to watch our Ambassador pack and learn about wolf behavior. This effort fits in very well with our education-based mission. We're appreciative of the work that the explore.org team has done to make this partnership happen.
